Non-original alterations and additions are not significant.

How is it significant?

The complex containing Glen Eagles, Kinross and Kinfauns flats, their landscape setting, and rear garages, is of local aesthetic and historic significance to Port Phillip.

Why is it significant?

This complex of flats is of local historical significance to Port Phillip. It is a large and intact complex of low-rise flats built in Queens Road, Melbourne in the early 1940s. This complex is of local historical value as it demonstrates the significant role that Queens Road played in flat development in the municipality from the Interwar period, due largely to its close proximity to public transport and the views it afforded to Albert Park Lake. It is also an example of a flat development by Margot O'Donohue and Frank Lynch, who built at least one other large block of flats in Queens Road. (Criterion A)

The complex is of local aesthetic significance to Port Phillip, as a large and intact example of an early 1940s flats complex designed in a restrained, but well-composed, Moderne style. The three blocks of flats, Glen Eagles, Kinross and Kinfauns, demonstrate a transition in styling of blocks between the more ornate styles of historicism and Streamline Moderne, to that of the uncompromisingly Modern developments of Newburn and Stanhill flats. (Criterion E)

Glen Eagles, Kinross and Kinfauns are a particularly fine, representative, and intact example of an Inter-war flat complex, demonstrating key features of flat design of this period, including incorporation of vehicle accommodation, and garden settings for each block. These garden settings, combined with the modest scale of the blocks (three-storey) and their hips roofs, provide a residential scale and character to this complex, absent in many Post-war flat developments in Port Phillip. It was these design attributes in early flats that helped shift earlier negative perceptions of flat living, to their growth in popularity with single and smaller family units in the Inter-war period. (Criterion D)
